KEYNOTE

Going “Outside the Lines” To Reach Every Learner

Researchers tell us that educators should no longer ask about students, “How smart are they?” but rather, “How are they smart?” Full of humor, emotion and inspiration, this full-day session explores ways to reach previously disenfranchised learners and incorporate students’ competencies into curriculum planning and assessment. Through research-based theory, poignant stories, and hilarious characterizations Debbie Silver connects with the souls of all who are involved in education. This up-lifting workshop is sure to remind participants how important they are to the lives of learners.

Debbie is an award winning educator, author, and international speaker. Her book, Drumming to the Beat of Different Marchers has been widely used to help educators with differentiating instruction across North America and around the globe. She has over 30 years of extensive teaching experience in all kinds of environments and has worked as a classroom teacher, staff development instructor, and university professor.
